

I'm extremely disappointed with the latest list of significantly viewed markets by counties. I am a Dish Network subscriber who has anxiously waited for the law to allow me to receive Philadelphia broadcast networks to go along with the New York stations that I can receive now. I am based in Southeastern Monmouth County, NJ and Cablevision offers both markets within our zip code. I was under the impression that it was the intention of the new law to bring cable and satellite providers onto more equal footing. In addition, I am located 45 miles outside of New York City and am unable to receive a usable over the air signal from either market due to terrain issues, yet they have me classified as grade "B" on the antennaweb.org website. I have an HDTV and am upset that the law prohibits Dish Network from providing me with Digital Distant as none of the New York City broadcasters are transmitting at levels which would allow them to be picked up by those in our area. They either need to install repeater towers so that our area can pick up the HD signal, or they need to surrender their exclusivity rights so I can get it through Satellite. Thank you for reading my comments.
